

Independence Public Library Questions and Answers

Will there be quiet/study areas in the new library?

The quietest areas of the library will be the study rooms which will be available on a reservation basis. There will be three study rooms and a conference room in the new library. These will be ideal for small groups working on a project or individuals needing a quiet study area or test-taking space. The conference room will seat approximately ten people while the largest study room will accommodate three to five. The two small study rooms will be for one or two people each.

An example of a study room from the Waukee
Public Library.

More Library Project Info: www.indylibrary.org